BUDGET AND LORDS.

CONSERVATIVE WARNING.

COMMONS MUST BE SUPREME.

LORD BALFOUR OF BURLEIGH'S STATEMENT.

EFFECT OF REJECTION.

REVOLUTION OF SOCIALISM.

LONDON, Nov. 26.

The House of Lords yesterday resumed consideration of the motion for the second reading of the Finance Bill, and of the amendment moved by the Marquis of Lansdowne.

Lord Lansdowne's amendment is not justified in giving its consent to the bill until it has been submitted to the judgment of the country.

In the absence of Lord Curzon, who had moved the adjournment on the previous day, the debate opened tamely. Some benches were half vacant, and there were few spectators. King Manuel of Portugal was again present.

Lord Ashbourne (Conservative) said that for the first time in history the Budget went far beyond the provision for the year's revenue. The Lords had the right to be sure that the people knew the character of the bill.

LORD BALFOUR OF BURLEIGH'S SPEECH.

Lord Balfour of Burleigh (Conservative) made a remarkable speech, characterized by many shrewdly, which was greeted with frequent applause from the Liberal benches.

Lord Balfour of Burleigh said that he objected to the bill because various of its provisions were unnecessary to the service of the State.

He was not in possession of funds for future expenses. That aggravated the change because it tended to make the Executive more and more independent of Parliament.

In many respects the Budget was unfair as between rich and poor. For the first time it had finance founded on class hatred and jealousy.

STRONG SECOND CHAMBER NEEDFUL.

If he objected to the contents of the Budget he objected still more strongly to the tone and temper of some speeches which it had been recommended. There had been an increase in the output of rhetorical eggs.

Party organization had been raised to such perfection that it was crushing out the independence of Commons. There was never a time in the history of the country when a second chamber, strong, trusted, and in the nature of things somewhat conservative, was more necessary.

"But I question," Lord Balfour of Burleigh said, "whether the Lords are wise in making a new claim at this juncture. Lord Balfour made the Commons supreme with the Government of the day, and in control of financial matters. The two things go together, and are in essence and in truth admitted by every constitutional lawyer."

LORDS VICTORY TEMPORARY.

"If a system is established whereby the Lords have a right to force a referendum on the Commons, the Government, and make a momentary change in the Constitution."

"If you win a victory it can be at the most temporary. The passage of Lord Lansdowne's resolution will only give a reversal of the control which the Commons have attained their present position. If you are defeated the result will be to produce the power, prestige, and usefulness of the House of Lords."

"I object to tactics which combine the defence of the second chamber with the taxation of the people's food, and the best of the nation reform will provide the needed revenue."

OFFENDING THE COUNTRY.

Those who vote with Lord Lansdowne will be making it a free trip. They will offend the deepest Conservative instincts of the country, and that feeling may be reflected at the polls."

Lord Lums (Parliamentary Under-Secretary for War) pointed out that the House of Lords had killed eighteen bills during the last five years, and that the Conservative measure had been rejected. The House of Lords had not stepped into the political arena, competing with the House of Commons on party lines.

Thos. B. (Conservative) ridiculed the contention that this was a poor man's Budget, since it taxed his great necessity—employment.

A MEMO SUPPORTS THE BUDGET.

The Bishop of Hereford (Mr. Percival) said that he supported the bill because it was a social-welfare Budget, and because it was based on sound finance.

It was impossible, the Bishop of Hereford said, to expect an educated demagogue to remain content with the survival which represented the present constitution of our society.

He protested against the bloated estimates of military armaments all over Europe, and declared that the country was waiting for the time when arbitration would supersede competitive armaments.

WHEAT MR. GLADSTONE FAILED.

Lord Lamington (Conservative) said he did not share the alarm manifested by Lord Balfour of Burleigh as to the future of the Lords if Mr. Gladstone with all his prestige and authority, failed in his attack on the Lords. It was unlikely that the present Government would bring the walls of the House about their ears.

Dealing with socialistic remedies for rural depopulation, Lord Lamington said that settlements set up by Australian Governments in remote districts had not been successful, though the conditions were favorable and the land was given free.

THE INEVITABLE END.

The Marquis of Northampton (Liberal) warned the Opposition of the dangerous forces they were letting loose. They would imperil their own existence as a branch of the Legislature. The contest over their privileges might last for years, but inevitably it would end in their deposition.

The immediate effect of rejection of the Budget would be to stimulate social unrest and advance socialism. The Lords were playing into the hands of the extremists, apparently because they wanted to overthrow a Government to which they were politically opposed.

Thos. Morley (Secretary of State for India) moved the adjournment of the debate.

PRIVILEGES OF COMMONS.

LORDS AMENDMENT REJECTED.

LONDON, Nov. 26.

During discussion by the House of Commons, of amendments made by the House of Lords in the Development Bill, the Speaker (Mr. J. W. Lowther) ruled that a titling amendment with which the Government agreed would have an increase of the charge upon the funds, and was therefore a breach of privilege.

The amendment was thereupon negatived.

THE GENERAL ELECTION.

EARLY IN JANUARY.

NO PROVISION FOR NEW TAXES.

It is expected that the Imperial Parliament will be prorogued at the end of next week, and that the elections will be held early in January if the House of Lords does not assent to the Budget.

The "Times" says that the Government is averse to any proposals concerning the collection of taxes to tide over the interim, lest such a course might be interpreted as the acceptance of an alternative Budget.

The deficit resulting from the rejection of the Budget will continue until the new Parliament assembles.

THE IRISH LAND BILL.

VITAL AMENDMENT REJECTED.

LONDON, Nov. 26.

The House of Commons, by 246 votes to 49, rejected a vital amendment made by the House of Lords in the Irish Land Bill, requiring an appeal to be made to a judicial tribunal instead of to the Land Commission prior to the compulsory purchase of land.

CANADIAN NAVY.

DECISION TO BUILD LOCALLY.

LONDON, Nov. 26.

The Ottawa correspondent of the "Daily Mail" reports that it is practically settled that the vessels constituting the nucleus of the Dominion navy will be constructed in Canada.

The Government has come to the conclusion that as vessels equal to the British standard can be constructed in Canada, while the cost will be little more than the benefits of local construction justify the policy.

As to the cost of local construction, it is a fair thing to assume that to build warships in Canada will cost at least as much as in the United States, where the wages are on a similar scale. Probably it would be higher, and other costs of production, on account of the much larger quantity of material turned out in the United States, are lower in the Republic.

Mr. Archibald Hurd, in an article in the "Fortnightly" shows that the cost of a ton higher in the United States than in England, and no doubt the difference per ton in the cost of protected cruisers would not be a negligible item. It would be sufficient to make an appreciable difference in the cost of each cruiser built.

THE DOCKS SEEM TO BE CLEARING FOR A LONG TIME.

It appears that the scheme of the strike congress for raising funds will not be directly hampered by the railway authorities.

Mr. Lee, the Acting Premier, said last night that the instructions which had been sent out in certain instances to refuse the haulage of all coal except for railway use had been countermanded.

The Commissioners will haul all coal, provided as much as is necessary for the railways is offered to them at a reasonable price.

The miners' mines will therefore be able to get rid of their coal. Whether the railways will take the whole of it at a "reasonable" price is not clear.

If not, after satisfying the needs of the railways, the balance of the miners' coal may be sold at the present high prices.

The strike congress accepted it. The southern and western owners refused it. The northern owners telegraphed that they had not time to decide on it.

The strike congress yesterday answered the Acting Premier's invitation.
